

Chart Shows That Increased Spending Hasn't Improved Academic Performance in America's Schools

This chart, produced by the Cato Institute, shows that inflation-adjusted spending per student has increased almost 200% since 1970 while scores on the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) have remained flat.